

10 Androgynous Hairstyles for 2022

Buzz Cut

The buzz cut is an absolute classic—and it has only become more and more popular throughout the years. Completely gender neutral and extremely convenient when it comes to managing your hair, the buzz cut is a great hairstyle choice for individuals who identify as bi-gender, transgender, gender fluid, non-binary, neutrois, androgen, or a gender. If you dread doing your hair in the morning or if you just get really bad bedhead, a buzz cut is a great way to reduce your hair hygiene responsibilities—and save on shampoo! And when it gets unbearably hot outside, you won't have to worry about sweat building up on your scalp.

Asymmetrical Pixie

You can't go wrong with an asymmetrical pixie cut. Normal pixie cuts are so last year—spice things up by off-centering your next hairstyle. You can show off your good side and still style the hair on your other side. Asymmetrical pixie cuts are well complemented by highlights, colored streaks, and full hair dyes. If you've been looking for an excuse to dye your hair at your next salon appointment, this is your sign.

Side-Swept Cut

The side-swept cut is another classic, low-maintenance hairstyle. It's great for individuals who love to play with style and constantly change their minds about what they want to do with their hair. The side-swept cut is particularly useful for individuals who regularly wear their hair up in a ponytail but still want the low maintenance benefits of a buzz cut.

Crop and Fade

maintain as much of its natural texture as possible. The bowl cut, popularized by the Beatles back in the 60s, is a classic hairstyle that works on everyone. Whether you want to draw attention to your best features (by framing your face) or neutralize your feminine features, a bowl cut is easy to style and works well for any gender identity or pronoun preference.
